W. & M. FORCES PENN STATE TO RESORT TO TRICK PLAY

Indians Play Penn State a Great Defensive Game

WHITTEN HASTINGS STARS

Forced to use every ounce of its strength, Penn State defeated William and Mary 27 to 7. In addition, Bezdek's star quarter back, Mike Palm, was clipped out of bounds and received a sprained ankle that will keep him out of the game for at least three weeks. Although Bezdek's steam-roller attack finally overcame the Orange and Black, this did not happen, however, until State opened up with an assortment of trick plays and passes.

Penn State played a ragged game, fumbling repeatedly. On the second down of the fray a State back fumbled and Hastings scooped up the ball and carried it over for William and Mary's touchdown. Whitten also kicked the extra point.

Indians On Offensive

During the third quarter, the Indians kept the ball in State's territory for twelve of the fifteen minutes. Using straight football, Penn State had enjoyed a 7-7 tie score at the end of the first quarter. Then Bezdek was forced to open up, to the delight of the football scouts from other colleges. While they made it only two first downs, one on a pass to Hastings, the other on an end run by Joyce Levvy, the Indians forced State to punt constantly during the second half. "Monk" White, captain, was out of the game with an injured shoulder.

Fumbles of passes by Dietz and Flanders on the goal line cost William and Mary two touch-downs.

With the exception of Hastings, there were no individual stars on the William and Mary team. And that is why the Indians were able to hold State to such a small score. Never before have the Indians put up such a fight and against such overwhelming odds. It was, according to the Associated Press account, one of the greatest defensive games seen on the Penn State gridiron in years.

Palm and Wilson did sensational work for State, while their line stopped every Indian attack.

The line-up:

Penn State	Pos.	W. & M.
Frank	left end	Levvy
Schuster	left tackle	Young
Hamilton	left guard	Keister
Bentz	center	Todd
Bedenk	right guard	House
McMahon	right tackle	Chandler
Hufford	right end	Chaulkley
Palm	quarter back	Flanders
Wilson	left half back	Cain
Carson	right half back	J. Levvy
Singer	full back	Hastings

WILL PARKS SCHOLARSHIP TO BE PRESENTED TO COLLEGE

The memory of William Parks, "First Printer to the Public," first newspaper editor in the Colony of Virginia, is to be honored with a substantial scholarship at William and Mary, and with a tablet to be erected upon the green in front of the College campus, according to the terms of a resolution adopted at the recent annual convention at Staunton of the Virginia Press Association.

Parks, an Englishman, after a short stay in Maryland, was invited by Governor William Gooch to establish a press at Williamsburg. Coming to Virginia in 1730, he was, in 1732, appointed official printer and held that position until his death in 1750. In 1736, he began the publication of "The Virginia Gazette, Containing the Freshest Advices, Foreign and Domestic." This marked the beginning of journalism in Virginia.

That Virginia should have lagged behind New England with respect to printing was due to the repressive attitude of the governing authorities. In 1671, Sir William Berkeley, the governor, in response to inquiries touching the state of the colony, made his oft-quoted comment on free schools and printing, thanking God that Virginia was free of both. While the first actual use of the printing press in Virginia occurred in 1682, the steps to suppress the evil by the powers that were, both in Williamsburg and London, were effective until the arrival of Parks.

The first issue of the Virginia Gazette appeared on August 6, 1736. After Park's death there was no break in the publication of the paper. However, at the time of the Revolution, three Gazettes disputed the right to the Parks' succession. One of these was the first to print the news of the Declaration of Independence.

The dedication of the Parks' tablet, the date of which has not been fixed, will be signalized by exercises in which outstanding journalists and typographers are expected to take part.

CHI OMEGAS ENTERTAIN KAPPA ALPHA THETAS

The Chi Omega Fraternity entertained the Kappa Alpha Thetas in honor of their installation by an afternoon bridge party Saturday, September 30th, at the home of Mrs. Geiger, patroness of the Chi Omegas.

The respective colors of the fraternities, cardinal and straw and black and gold, formed the basis of a pleasing color scheme which was carried out in the favors and refreshments, the latter consisting of salad, ices, and coffee. Miss Julia Dixon won the prize at bridge.

Newspapers Laud The Defense of William and Mary

"Not only did Penn State have to fight with every bit of strength to defeat William and Mary College," says the Philadelphia North American, "but the last play of the game also struck a heavy blow to future prospects when Mike Palm, Bezdek's star quarter back, was clipped out of bounds and received a badly sprained ankle. Bezdek's steam roller attack finally conquered the Southerners, 27-7," continued the North American, "but not before the Nittany Lions had opened up their bag of trick plays."

According to the Richmond Times-Dispatch, "the game put up by the two Old Dominion teams (William and Mary and Richmond College) will put both colleges on an athletic standing they have not occupied before. Next year they will again be in demand in the North, while the smallness of the scores will reflect credit on the entire section they represent."

Richmond News-Leader: "Although defeated, 27 to 7, the Williamsburg boys compelled their heavier rivals to resort to passing. It was due to this style of play that they secured their four touchdowns."

The Norfolk Virginian Pilot and the Newport News Times-Herald carried the essence of the accounts already mentioned.

230th Session of the Supreme Court Held

The 230th annual session of the Supreme Court of the College of William and Mary in Virginia convened in chapel at 7:30 P. M., Monday, October 2, to adjourn thence a short three hours later, having disposed of the heaviest docket which it has faced in all its venerated history. It is thought that the hearing of some three hundred odd cases in that length of time establishes a record for speed and efficiency which will remain long unbroken by any court of equal jurisdiction.

Indeed, Ye Ancient and Honorable Court early in its sitting manifested its deprecation of the delays that so often characterize courts of law, and soon showed itself to be an instrument of a deservedly swift and terrible justice.

The dignity and impressiveness of Judge "Gi" Stephens alone was enough to strike awe to the hearts of the offending "Ducs"; but when this was supplemented by the searching cross-examination and unmerciful denunciations of the Prosecuting Attorneys, Monk White and Phillips, few of the malefactors, indeed, had the heart to plead "Not Guilty."

There was little that the Defending

While Indians Are Away Papoose Play

More than five hundred students braved the hot sun to see the two teams of Squad B play on Cary Field Saturday afternoon. The evenly contested fracas went to Squad No. 1 by the score of 6-0.

While the game was not a criterion of football technique, it showed large quantities of that "never say die spirit" which is the prime prerequisite to the development of a football team. Incidentally, the game brought to light some very good material which may, before the season is very old, press some of the varsity members for their jobs.

One of the most encouraging indications of a successful football season is the spirit and "pep" displayed by the students. They are getting into the spirit of the game like old timers.

Turpin, Duke, and Young were the outstanding stars of the day. Turpin is a hard working back; he weighs 150 pounds and tackles hard. He will bear watching. Charlie Duke, who played on the winning team, broke through the opposing line and smeared up line and off tackle plays at will. On the offense, Duke opened holes large enough to drive a wagon through. Charlie is still in the race for a regular varsity berth.

Young, a "Duc," who was playing the end position, broke through the interference many times and made several tackles behind the enemy line. It was Young who blocked the ball which Charlie Duke recovered for the only touch-down of the day.

Etiquette Discussed

Etiquette was the theme of the Y. W. meeting held Wednesday evening, October 4th, in the chapel. The feature of the evening was the graphic oration by "Judge" Lawless in which she stated in convincing terms what was expected of the Lady Ducs in the way of deportment.

SIX LOYAL ROOTERS MOTOR TO PENN STATE

Billy Person, "Count" Bellanger, "Sleepy" Tennis, "Duc" Duncan, Bill Irwin and "Duc" Mattersmith cheered the Indians at Penn State College last Saturday. Members of the team say that our handful of rooters could be heard amid the tumult of the Penn State supporters.

ASSISTANT BUSINESS MANAGER OF FLAT HAT IS APPOINTED

Mr. B. G. Williams has been appointed Assistant Business Manager of the Flat Hat. The Flat Hat staff is now undergoing a reorganization. Four Assistant Circulation Managers have been appointed.

Philomatheans Install Officers

JUDGE FEIDELSON SPEAKS

The following men were installed as officers for the first quarter at the meeting of the Philomathean Literary Society, Saturday night, September 30th:

President, S. C. Hall.
Vice-President, H. L. Gilbert.
Secretary, C. B. Quaintance.
Treasurer, M. B. Reynolds.
Literary Critic, C. R. Ball.
Chaplain, E. B. Moffitt.
Sergeant-at-Arms, R. H. Bush.

After a short business session a very interesting programme was given. Mr. H. H. Johnson read a selection on ancient Greece.

Messrs. Gilbert and Reynolds presented excellent declamations. The extemporaneous debate, however, attracted the most interest. The question, "Resolved, That Freshmen Rules should be suspended at the end of the first quarter," raised considerable interest, and good speeches were made for both sides. The arguments of several freshmen were especially interesting in that they showed an abundance of talent in the Society.

Judge Feidelson, who visited the Society, gave a short, inspirational talk and made several helpful suggestions. He said that he considered literary society work one of the most important of college activities, and added that the ability to speak forcibly comes only as the result of constant practice. Of first importance, Judge Feidelson stated, is the thought content; second, the structure; and, third, the delivery, which is mostly a matter of practice.

A goodly number of new members were enrolled.

English, a Universal Requirement at College

With the election of E. M. Gwathmey, M. A., University of Virginia, Associate Professor, and the strengthening of its staff in other ways, the English Department of William and Mary, under the direction of Dr. J. Leslie Hall, Dean of the Faculty, will be certain to attract many students.

Dr. Hall has been a member of the William and Mary faculty since 1888. Dr. Cary F. Jacob has charge of all the composition classes. Associated with the Department is also A. P. Elliott, M. A., University of North Carolina, H. H. Gelsinger, M. A., Harvard, and Judge Charles N. Feidelson, in charge of journalism. William and Mary places special emphasis upon its work in English and makes it a universal requirement. Nineteen courses in English are now offered.

Phoenix Literary Society Holds Its First Meeting

The work of the Phoenix Literary Society began in earnest last Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock, when the first regular meeting of the session was held in the society hall. Instead of a regular programme, there was a general discussion of the plans, purposes, and needs of the society. Interesting talks were given by Mr. Peebles, the Rev. Mr. Crutchfield, and others concerning the value of literary society work and the means of improving the society. The meeting was well attended and several new members were added to the roll.

The Phoenixians promise an interesting programme tomorrow night, including extemporaneous debate and the installment of officers. An invitation is extended to all men students of the College to come and take part in the work of the society, with the purpose of making this the most successful year it has ever known.

Capt. Joynes Welcomes Growth of the College

It is a far cry from the William and Mary of 1879, when the College was closed, to the William and Mary of today with its enrollment of more than 700 students. It is a far cry from the time when Colonel B. S. Ewell, the President, was the only one to tend the expiring academic flame to the present day when even a large faculty and expanded equipment are inadequate to meet the demands which are being made upon the institution by the youth of Virginia. Yet Captain W. W. Joynes, U. S. C. G., retired, who has just established his permanent home in Williamsburg, and who was forty-three years ago Colonel Ewell's only student, is witness to the remarkable transformation which the College has experienced.

Captain Joynes is a son of Professor Edward S. Joynes who taught at William and Mary from 1859 to the outbreak of the Civil War, and who was later a member of the faculty with which General Lee surrounded himself at Washington and Lee.

In the late 70's Captain Joynes, whose mother was a member of the Vest family of Williamsburg, was preparing himself for admission to Annapolis and had Colonel Ewell as his tutor. Every morning he would meet the old soldier in the latter's office in the President's house.

"Colonel Ewell would ride in from his home a few miles away," Captain Joynes relates, "and go through the formalities of a college president's day. He was a remarkably fine mathematician. He bore himself proudly, despite the dormancy of the College, moving with dignity among the dusty books and the signs of decay. The Main Building was, of course, not being used. I was too young to catch the full meaning of the situation, but it made an unforgettable impression on me. It is a great joy to see how the college has sprung out of desolation into the vital activities of which the entire country has become aware."

LIBRARY NOTES

The College Library will soon be in a condition to accommodate a much larger number of students than it can at present. The material for constructing the addition is already in place and the foundations are being laid.

This addition will make it possible for the present stack room to be used for a reading room and for offices for the librarian.

Mr. Swem, the Librarian, this year has a corps of seven assistants. They are Miss Emily P. Christian, Chief Assistant, and Miss Beverly Ruffin, Mr. W. A. Dickinson, Mr. R. R. Sisson, Mr. C. C. Thompson, Miss Mary Deane and Miss Elizabeth Kent, student assistants.

The College Library has just received as a gift from the library at Princeton University a set of three hundred volumes of law books. In addition to this gift, the library is in receipt of two other very highly prized gifts. One of these is a notebook containing the lecture notes of James Madison on natural philosophy. This book was kept by Robert Murchie in the year 1809. (It was recently presented to the library.) The other is a copy of the "Virginia Gazette" published in Williamsburg during the Revolution. It was found in the papers of the late Judge Montgomery, of the Supreme Court of North Carolina, and given to the library by his son, Dr. W. A. Montgomery, of the faculty.

A Duc's Creed of William and Mary

This Creed was written by a Duc. We likewise have a strong belief, and that is our belief in you, Ducs.

"I believe in the College of William and Mary as a College of the students, for the students, by the students, whose just regulations are derived from the actions of the student body; a College which has Honor as its fundamental principal; a College which has equal social standing of students; a sacred institution of higher learning which produces intelligent, refined men and women who can contribute to the cause of humanity and civilization.

"I, therefore, believe it is my duty to my College to love it; to live up to its traditions of the past and the regulations of the present; to live up to the Honor System; to respect the colors of the College; and to defend it against all enemies."

ON TO BLACKSBURG

Game With V. P. I. Will Be Hard Fought

Team In Good Shape And Is Building Up a Powerful Offense

The Indians will have perhaps the hardest game of the season tomorrow when they face the strong V. P. I. eleven at Blacksburg. V. P. I. is generally conceded to have the best prospects of any college team in Virginia this season.

While Penn State is probably a much stronger team than Virginia Tech; Coach Ingram's men will have a heavier burden since they will play an offensive game as well as defensive. It is a well known fact that offensive play requires nearly double the effort that defensive play demands.

William and Mary is going to Blacksburg with the express purpose of bringing home the bacon, and according to the showing made by the Indians during the past week, they will probably be successful. If the Orange and Black warriors master the new system taught by Coach Ingram, they will stand an excellent chance of victory. As for defense—merely review the Penn State game.

Pap Fuller is back in harness and will probably make the trip as utility center and end. Pap is a good man in either position. Elliott has been shifted to tackle where there is a scarcity of varsity material. With L. Levvy and Hastings out with injuries, Dietz and Chalkley at ends; White, J. Levvy, Cain and Flanders or Irwin in the backfield will probably be the selection for the disturbed positions.

The other men making the trip are: Kiester, Fuller, Irwin, Charles, A. Z. Williams, L. Williams, Haskell, Elliott and Jordan.

Score by periods:

Penn State 7 14 0 7—28
W. & M. 7 0 0 0—7

Touchdowns: Hastings, Singer, Frank, Palm, Wilson. Point after touchdown: Hastings (place kick); Palm, 4 (drop kicks). Substitutes: Penn State, McCoy for Hufford and Gregory for Carson; William and Mary, Dietz for Levvy, Parsons for Kiester, Irwin for J. Levvy, Elliott for Chandler, Jordan for Hastings, J. Levvy for Cain and Charles for Flanders. Referee: Ted Eberle, Swarthmore. Umpire: K. Dallenback, Illinois. Head linesman, F. A. God-charles, Lafayette. Time of periods: 15 minutes.

For the first time in years, a William and Mary football team is featured in all of the large city dailies.

Hastings and L. Levvy Out of Game

Hastings broke some small bones in his foot during Penn State game last Saturday and will be unable to make the V. P. I. trip. Hastings is one of the best line plungers in the State and substitutes for him will have to "strut their stuff."

Lionel Levvy, receiving a sprained ankle at State College, will be on the hospital list for at least two weeks. Lionel has been showing up well at end, his big asset being speed and heady playing.

HERE AND THERE

Saturday's 27-7 score was a Pyrrhic victory for Penn State. Mike Palm, Bezdek's star quarter back, was clipped out of bounds and received a sprained ankle. He will be out of the Nittany line-up for at least three weeks.

The Spiders are to be congratulated for their excellent defense last Saturday in their game with Lafayette. The Pennsylvanians were reputed to have had the best line in the East last year.

Results of games of interest:

V. P. I. 25, King College 6.
Randolph-Macon 2, N. C. State 20.
Trinity College 43, Guilford 0.
Wake Forest 3, N. C. 62.
Roanoke College 157, R. M. A. O.
Richmond University 0, Lafayette 34.

Coach Ingram says that he is going to play both a defensive and offensive game against V. P. I. He has some wonderful ground gaining plays.

The papooses were keeping their tomahawks sharpened while the Indians were at Penn State.

Otto Lowe will be lost to the Indians for the rest of the year on account of a bad shoulder. Hard luck, Otto boy.

DR. ROWE REVIEWS BOOKS ON BALLISTICS

Dr. Joseph E. Rowe, of the Department of Mathematics, who was Chief Ballistician of the Aberdeen Proving Grounds before coming to William and Mary, has been officially asked by the American Mathematical Society to review two books on ballistics for the Society. One of these is in German, and was written by Dr. Theodor Vahlen, Professor of Pure and Applied Mathematics in the University of Greifswald; the other was written by Roger Sherman Hoar, a former officer in the U. S. Army.

News From Alaska

At a meeting of the Y. M. C. A. last year, it was voted to send John Bentley, a former student at William and Mary, $40.00 for the purchase of one dog. This dog was to be one of a team of eight. The team will carry Bentley over quite a large area in Alaska; and with this help, he can carry the Gospel of Jesus Christ to many who otherwise would not hear it. The following is a letter received from Bentley:

June 11, 1922.

"My Dear Reed:—

"Your very good letter of April 10, enclosing the $40, came a few days ago. For many reasons I was more than just glad to hear from you. I know you have been mighty busy at school this year. All the fellows seem to have been. Very few have written, and I was hungry for news from old W. & M.

The money for one of my dogs was just great. It surely is fine to know that the next winter we shall be able to get about and not have to depend on some other fellow's team. A dog may be only a dog in the good old U. S. A., but here he is man's best friend. Some time ago I was reading an article in which two of our foremost thinkers were discussing the question as to what one thing in the world had helped man most. One contended that fire had; the other stood up for the dog. I think they must both have been Alaskans, for certainly fire and dogs are our great friends here.

"Of course you heard of my needs through Mr. Jones. You were very good indeed to take the interest which you did and to send so much. I realize how many calls you have for help, especially just now when times are so hard and I appreciate your goodness all the more. The Y. M. C. A. surely delivered the goods this time. When you meet next year, please say for me that I thank them sincerely for their help. Not only is the money a big help just now; but the knowledge that you fellows at home are behind us, goes a long way when things look a bit blue.

I am delighted that ——— is interested in Alaska. I must write to him. Don't you fellows talk China to him. We need him here; and some more of you.

"Please give my kindest regards to all the fellows next fall, and believe me

"Faithfully yours,

"Signed JOHN B. BENTLEY."

"P. S.—As I write this, two young pups are playing just under the windows. Next winter they will be part of my team.

"Again, I say, many, many thanks." The men that know Bentley will tell what a fine man he was. I surely hope the Y. M. will help him some again this year. You who knew him, write a letter and tell him all the news you can. How about some more men for Alaska, as missionaries?

WHAT ARE WE GOING TO DO ABOUT YELLS?

Last year we asked the same question without any results. We have this year a fine football team. We are going to lick the "sox" off Richmond College this Thanksgiving.

The student body will be there enmasse to watch the operation, but it will be able to evince its enthusiasm and joy only through the medium of borrowed yells which have no "punch" and of antiquated cries which would do little credit to Dr. Hall's Whick-Wack High School.

William and Mary needs some original yells, some modern, stirring, peppy yells. Isn't there enough talent and college spirit at William and Mary to produce these yells?

The Flat Hat offers for the second time a five dollar prize for the best original William and Mary yell. Come on, Eds and Co-Eds, show your Indian spirit and at the same time win this prize. Send your contributions to the Yell Contest Editor Flat Hat.

At all hazards make some real effort to win this contest. Do it today.

DUC RULES

The Freshman Class is to be congratulated upon complying with the Duc rules. Last year, the freshmen were somewhat dilatory and stubborn about obeying the regulations the upper-classmen imposed upon the freshmen. We feel, however, that the freshmen this year are very loyal to the Duc rules and the upper-classmen encounters no trouble in forcing the Ducs to carry out the rules. It may be due to the Supreme Court that the Ducs are so loyal. Many of the freshmen were charged with very grave and heinous charges, and some cases were set aside for a new hearing. Extra sessions of the Supreme Court have been called under extenuating circumstances. We trust that an extra session will not be demanded this year.

Ducs, obey the Duc rules and your year will be an enjoyable one. Don't trouble trouble until trouble troubles you.

CONTRIBUTIONS FROM THE STUDENT BODY

The Flat Hat staff wishes the hearty co-operation of the student body in making this year's Flat Hat the best that has yet been published. The staff welcomes contributions from the students. Express your opinions through the medium of your college weekly. The Flat Hat does not belong to the Flat Hat staff. It belongs to the student body. If the students want a good paper, they can have it by co-operating with the staff.

The Society for the Preservation of the Old Blair Homestead plans to convey the Old Blair House to the College, on the condition that the College will maintain it as a Blair Memorial and use it for college purposes. This Society was recently organized by Hon. John Garland Pollard for the purpose of preserving and restoring the ancient land-mark that was in immediate danger of being scrapped and obliterated.

It is with a great deal of apprehension that we view the destructive inroads of a materialistic age on our historical shrines. Time and man together have already wiped out a large part of the evidences of our former life and traditions. It is only through the efforts of such men as Mr. Pollard and the Preservation Society that we have saved what we have from the steam rolling march of modern materialism. The monetary cost of acquiring and preserving the few remaining spots that are so dear to every true American is infinitesimal when compared with the benefit of posterity. It cannot be denied that our present high state of civilization and morality is in large part due to the love and influence of tradition. If we allow our connections with the past to be destroyed, are we not breaking the links in the very chain of our civilization? Yet this is just the situation we are facing, unless we hasten to the assistance of all such efforts as Mr. Pollard and the Preservation Societies have undertaken.

The Old Blair House would make an excellent addition to the College Campus, which already contains more historical buildings than any other college campus in the country. It is to be hoped that this worthy effort will meet with the success that deserves.

WOMEN'S STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION HOLDS MEETING

The October meeting of the Women's Student Government Organization took place in the Chapel, Monday, October 2.

The chief business transacted was the adoption of the Point System in the College. This means that no woman may hold over a certain number of officers at one time. The details will be worked out later.

Enrollment in Extension Division Is Most Encouraging

The fourth year of the Extension Division of the College of William and Mary began its work this week in four cities. Preliminary registration has been held and the enrollment is most encouraging. The total number enrolled to date is 600, but it is soon expected to pass the 622 mark which was set last year. Standard college courses are offered and the regular academic degrees are given to those who complete the course.

In the number of students enrolled, Norfolk is now leading with 176. Joseph E. Healey, an alumnus of the College, is the local director. The other local directors are: H. H. Hibbs for Richmond and Petersburg, and F. M. Alexander, also an alumnus of the College, for Newport News.

Professor G. B. Zehmer, of the Faculty, is conducting classes in Rural Sociology and other practical subjects at Gloucester Court House. Superintendent Kenney was instrumental in securing this advantage for his city.

The College stands ready and willing to provide this service in any city or town which desires it, provided they can guarantee a sufficient number of students to make the undertaking practical.

Monogram Club Gives Its Initial Dance

The Monogram Club opened the Monogram Club Dance series last Saturday night with a very enjoyable time. All those who attended the dance reported a big time. The College Orchestra, led by Mr. J. C. Phillips, furnished the music for the occasion. The Club is very grateful to the orchestra for the splendid music it rendered in the opening of the series of dances, which the Monogram Club will give throughout the year.

Thirteen Club Has Five New Members

The Thirteen Club, a secret organization, had several men in the Class of '21; therefore, the requisite number had to be made up by the initiation of several upper classmen, to which membership is restricted. The familiar token has been noticed on the lapels of H. T. Moncure, J. W. Parker, Jr., W. H. Hastings, J. M. Bridges, and W. T. Henley.

Echo Staff Enlarged

Messrs. H. T. Hancock and T. H. Mawson were elected as assistant business managers of the Colonial Echo. Mr. Tommy Evans was elected Photographic Editor. Two women editors were also added to the staff: Misses Hazel Young and Elizabeth DeShazo. The Joke Editors elected were: Monk White, H. T. Moncure; Misses Lily Lawless and Lucy Holt.

Which Type of Research is of Greatest Value?

A stove burns too much coal. A man familiar with the principles of combustion and heat radiation makes experiments which indicate desirable changes in design. That is research.

You want to make a ruby in a factory, a real ruby, indistinguishable by any test from the natural stone. You begin by analyzing rubies chemically and physically. Then you make rubies just as nature did. Your rubies are the result of research—another type of research.

While melting up your chemicals and experimenting with high temperatures, you begin to wonder how hot the earth must have been millions of years ago, and what were the forces at play that made this planet what it is. Your investigation leads you far from rubies and causes you to formulate theories to explain how the earth, how the whole solar system was created. That would be research of a still different type.

Research of all three types is conducted in the laboratories of the General Electric Company. But it is the third type—pioneering into the unknown—that means most in the long run, even though undertaken with no practical benefit in view.

For example, the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company are exploring matter with X-rays in order to discover not only how the atoms in different substances are arranged but how the atoms themselves are built up. The more you know about a substance, the more you can do with it. This work may enable scientists to answer more definitely the question: Why is iron magnetic? Then the electrical industry will take a greater step forward than can be made in a century of experimenting with existing electrical apparatus.

You can add wings and stories to an old house. But to build a new house, you must begin with the foundation.

CLASS NOTES

The Senior Class has completed election of its officers as follows:

Historian, Elizabeth Smith.
Valedictorian, J. G. Pollard, Jr.
Poet, Jane C. Slaughter.
Chaplain, C. E. Topping.

E. B. Moffitt has also been chosen to represent the class on the Student or Discipline Council.

The Seniors decided to omit from the Annual the usual class prophecy, and therefore no prophet was elected.

John Todd was chosen by the Sophomore Class at its meeting Tuesday night as its representative to the Athletic Committee.

"DUC" RULES DISCUSSED

The matter of duration of "Duc Rules" was brought up by the "Old Men" of the College, meeting in chapel Monday night. Following spirited discussion, noticeably augmented by the nearness of the Supreme Court, it was decided almost unanimously that the "Duc Rules" as contained in the Students' Handbook, familiarly known as "Duc Bible," should continue throughout the entire year.

ATTENDANCE AT CHAPEL URGED

The regular chapel exercises for the respective classes have been held during the week on the usual days. Attendance at chapel exercises is particularly urged this year, as the fact that the classes now meet on separate days has much to do with building up a sense of group consciousness and compactness which is the basis of class pride, spirit, and distinction.

Also, the student who cuts chapel will miss many important announcements which often concerns him primarily. Chapel is held each morning except Wednesday and Saturday, at twenty minutes of nine, the schedule being as follows:

Seniors—Monday.
Juniors—Tuesday.
Sophomores—Thursday.
Freshmen—Friday.

Attend the chapel exercises for your class.

Shewmake Juvenile Judge (Daily Press)

It is reported on good authority that when circuit court convenes here next week, Prof. O. L. Shewmake, of the William and Mary faculty, will be appointed judge of the juvenile court for Williamsburg, James City and York Counties. B. M. Nance, Commonwealth's Attorney of Charles City, will be appointed a similar position for New Kent and Charles City Counties. The office pays only in fees, no salary being attached.

Women Have A New Fraternity

The Chi Delta Phi Honorary Literary Fraternity for women has been installed at the College of William and Mary. This is an outgrowth of the Scribblers Club organized at the College last year. Chi Delta Phi is attempting to band together similar local organizations throughout the college world. It is the only national women's organization of its kind in existence.

The purposes of the fraternity are to raise the standards of production in literary fields among the women of the colleges; to furnish the means for the nationalization of the movement; to bring together women having similar literary tastes and abilities; and to furnish congenial surroundings and honor for the encouragement of such work. Two well known members of Chi Delta Phi are Ellen Glasgow and Mary Roberts Rinehart.

The charter members of the local chapter are: Misses Katherine Wicker, Cornelia Adair, Virginia Thomson, Elise Eades, Miss Jane Slaughter, Elizabeth Van Laer, Beverly Ruffin, Mary Deane, Marguerite Jenkins, Helen Lannigan, Elizabeth Lee, and Muriel Valentine.

Pan-Hellenic Council Organizes

At a meeting of the Pan-Hellenic Council held Monday evening, the following officers were elected:

A. H. Cooke, President.
C. Thompson, Vice-President.
O. S. Lowe, Secretary-Treasurer.

The fraternities represented are as follows:

Kappa Sigma: J. Hatcher, J. M. Bridges.

Sigma Nu: J. O. Faison, Jr., H. R. Hicks.

Kappa Alpha: A. H. Cooke, Larry Green.

Pi Kappa Alpha: O. S. Lowe, F. F. Chandler.

Sigma Phi Epsilon: C. Thompson, J. C. Phillips.

Theta Delta Chi: C. A. Duke, J. C. Chandler.

PRESIDENT OF THE DISCIPLINE COUNCIL WAS ELECTED

At a meeting of the Discipline Council Wednesday afternoon, the organization of the Council was completed by electing J. Swanson Smith as President.

On account of the railroad strike, resulting in materials being hard to secure, and a delay in other matters, erection of the Lynchburg Memorial Gymnasium has been postponed until next spring. It is hoped that the building will then be rapidly pushed to completion.

According to a statement made in Charleston, W. Va., by President Charles J. Smith, Roanoke College faces the greatest opportunity in her history, for the General Education Board, of New York City, has made a conditional gift to the college of $165,000.

This gift, according to Dr. Smith, is conditional upon the securing of an additional $335,000 during the next two months. He also added that some preliminary gifts by individual friends of the college now brought the total amount well over $200,000.

Few universities in the world, if, indeed, any, have grown so fast as the University of the Philippines. The attendance for the year 1911-12 was 1,400 and for 1921-22, 4,718, an increase of 237 per cent.

* * *

Tufts College, Massachusetts, is the first great institution of learning to have planned to scatter a "higher education" upon the ether for the benefit of all those who care to gather it in and take it to mind. From the crest of College Hill twice a week there will go forth lectures that will have sufficient radio strength to reach the confines of Wisconsin and Florida. Lectures will be of 30 minutes duration each and will be sent out twice a week by a specially selected faculty of radio professors who, trained in their work, will speak so that the "listening in" pupils will be able to take notes quite as though they were attending class in person. The broadcasting will be done during the afternoon and therefore will not interfere with the radio programs to which the radio public is becoming accustomed for entertainment during the after-dinner hours. When a few other colleges will have followed suit free higher education will be within the reach of practically every American citizen. Stones of wisdom cast into Nature's great pool will stir the ether into concentric ripples that will overlook no one in their hurried progress.

NEW MEMBER OF STUDENT COUNCIL

Mr. J. Swanson Smith was elected as a member at large to the Student Council. This election was held to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. M. B. Joyner's not returning to College.

The Senior Class will elect a member from this class to the State Council at its next meeting.

Dr. Hall: "Will you listen while I tell you the truth about yourself?"

Topping: "I'm all ears, Doc!"

Dr. Hall: "That's just what I was going to say, but I should have put it differently."

Attorneys, Jenkins and Duke, could do in the face of the enormity of the Heinous crimes and the conclusive evidence before the jury. However, they acquitted themselves nobly, even though they did not succeed in freeing a single "Duc." The charges evidenced a striking originality which was pleasing to the "Old Men" and which reflects creditably to the genius of Clerk J. O. Faison, Jr. The jury-men, led by Henry Moncure, Foreman, took as their maximum, culpa poena par esto; nor does any victim gainsay that the verdicts as rendered were fitting and proper, and appropriate to the peculiar circumstances of the individual case.

Sheriff Gay, aided by a remarkably competent corps of deputies, carried into immediate execution the judgments of the court, much to the sorrow and chagrin of the culprits.

The offenses committed against the peace and dignity of the College were many and varied, and of such nature that it will suffice to say that they are unmentionable and shall here be nameless. The doctrine of caveat emptor was rigidly enforced in a number of cases where innocent freshmen had unwittingly paid out to enterprising "Old Men" good money for radiator rent and for use of lockers, chiffoniers, and other necessary adjuncts of a dormitory. Another doctrine of frequent application was that of non compos mentis, which was noted chiefly for the illuminating exposition which Prosecuting Attorney Monk White made of the principal of law involved.

WHERE DO THEY BELONG?

Normal School Girl: "I don't like seeing the boys around the girls. They seem like misplaced objects."

We take this opportunity to print the following letter sent to Mrs. Carl F. Dietz by the members of the 1922 football team:

October 2, 1922.

Mrs. Carl F. Deitz,
Williamsburg, Virginia.

Dear Mrs. Deitz:

We, the members of the 1922 football team of the College of William and Mary, wish to express our deepest sympathy for Coach Carl F. Dietz, who was unable to assume his duties at the College, due to his illness.

We feel that although he is not with us in person, he is with us in spirit and wishes us a successful season.

We fervently hope that he may soon regain his health.

Yours sincerely,

Members of the 1922
Football Team.

25 years

NO ONE more appreciates the new Parker Duofold than the students who play golf. The moment you grasp it your hand responds to that unmistakable feel that means business. Its fit, weight and balance produce a sensation akin to the pleasure of gripping your favorite club. It holds nearly twice the ink of the ordinary.

It has a point of native Iridium—as smooth and life-enduring as a rare jewel bearing—and guaranteed 25 years for wear and mechanical perfection.

This is the pen that Geo. S. Parker, inventor of the leakproof "Lucky-Curve" perfected through 30 years of infinite pains. Money can buy fancier mountings, but the world contains no other point like this. Its popularity has made a stir at the campus and classrooms unlike anything known before. Many pronounce it "handsomer than gold."

When one record shows that the average student buys 4 pens a year, don't you agree that it's better economy to buy one Duofold in a lifetime even at $7? Now is the time to come in.

THE SCANDAL

Oh tell me, my little darling,
Have you lost your little mind?
I came down here to see my child—
A lunatic I find.

Have you lost your box of powder?
Where are your rosy cheeks?
Who would have thought that one could change
So much in two short weeks?

I see you've changed your coiffure,
Is that the fashion here?
Did you get dressed in the dark,
my child?
Oh, let me know my dear.

No, Mother, I have not gone nuts:
My reason is not wrecked.
You see me thus, because this week
Duc Rules are in effect.

—M. B. V.

"Why is the Methodist Church down town like a river?" a Co-ed demands.

"That's easy," another one replies:
"Between two banks it stands."

A MAIDEN'S PRAYER

I ask nothing for myself O Fate,
A meeker maiden you never saw;
Don't bother to give me anything,
But please send my Mother a son-
in-law.

THE LATE DATE

Dipping honey, so I'm told,
Is what they call it now,
When a lover brave and bold
Steps up to make a vow.

Whose to blame if she is fooled
By the co-ed and whispered words?
Long ago she should have been schooled
In the handling of these birds.

To sit around and play the deuce,
With the innocent and the blind,
If she considers it abuse,
She could leave her sign behind.

"Any valuables taken?"

"Not a pint." —Ga. Crocker.

NARCISSUS

He gazed into those dark, seductive eyes, topped by long, lustrous lashes.
Eyes deep as wells. Rapturously, he looked at that pointed Grecian nose
so similar to those perfect wax figures, the mellow red lips, just the color of early rose buds; that clear, creamy complexion, and the outline of the capriciously formed chin. The entire profile was so soothing to look upon that the longer he gazed—into the mirror, the longer he realized what a good-looking brute he was.

—Juggler.

Visitor: "Do you have a high curriculum at William and Mary now?"

"Duc" Francis: "Maybe not as high as the town tank, but you can see the James River from the top of it."

She: "Most people admire my mouth; do you?"

He (absent minded): "I think it's simply immense." —Wildcat.

"So you aren't taking the electric treatment any more?"

"No, they charged me too much."

—Ga. Crocker.

Sophomore to Duc: "You are charged with misdemeanor."

Duc: "How can it be so? I have never met her."

Duc locates the base of the nerves in the spinal column: "One bundle of nerves has its base in base of the skull, and the other bundle of nerves has its base in the other end of the spinal column."

Harry: "Did you feel the earthquake last night?"

Carrie: "No, I was shimmying."

—Washington Dirge.

She: "My aunt goes to every dance
that I do."

He: "Ah, a dansant."

—Colorado Dodo.

Salesman: "Pardon me, sir, I have an attachment for your typewriter."

Manager: "Well, don't bother her during working hours."

—Notre Dame Juggler.

HISTORIC WILLIAMSBURG

"Duc" Warren (hearing fire siren for the first time): "What's that noise?"

"Duc" Baker: "Dunno. Must be the Powder Horn blowing."

OH! I MEANT—

Stallings (telephoning girl): "What have you got on tonight?"

His Girl: "Nothing."

Stallings: "I'd like to come right over, then."

—Technician.

MODERN GRAMMAR

English Professor: "Can any of you think of a sentence without a predicate?"

Smart Freshman: "Yes, sir."

Professor: "What is it?"

Freshman: "Sixty days."

—Technician.

Eloppements are certainly becoming the rage. Just this morning we read

Another Co-ed: "I tried to, but he answered for four different names."
